Policy Updates

What the Midterm Results Mean for Afterschool

With the dust still settling from the 2018 midterm elections, and several House and Senate races remain too close to call, there are a few conclusions to be made amidst the remaining uncertainty. While afterschool and summer learning programs are largely funded by parent fees, the public funding at the local, state, and federal level is critical. Therefore, the 2018 election will have an impact on existing programs and the prospect of additional support for programs. Click here for a few first impressions on what the results may mean for afterschool.

Report: The State of Afterschool in Illinois 2018

ACT Now launched a statewide afterschool map and database to help better quantify and demonstrate the excellent work being done by these programs statewide. The vast array of data collected within the afterschool map and database has allowed us to start to quantify the landscape of afterschool in Illinois for the first time. Using this data, ACT Now developed a report that will allow us to appreciate the scope of work accomplished, the excellent examples of afterschool programs, and the gaps in resources in areas of high need in Illinois.
